Leave it to Tower23 (t23hotel.com)—the boutique hotel that gave the P.B. boardwalk its high-design reboot—to reinvent surf camp. Launching Sept. 26-28, the Hang23 package (three nights for $870, based on double occupancy) includes a world-class introduction to the sport of kings. Your instructor? None other than surf royalty Izzy Paskowitz, who's got a bone to pick with kooks masquerading as kahūnas. "Learn the secrets of surfing from a real surfer!" says the seasoned pro, who loves longboarding at nearby Tourmaline. "It's hard to build a foundation on intel from a 2-week-old 'surfer' from Kentucky." Après surf, Paskowitz relaxes old-school style with an icy Pacifico and a shot of tequila at JRDN, Tower23's glam resto. But we think an in-room deep-tissue massage or warm seaweed mud wrap (60-minute treatments start from $120) sounds pretty darn radical. —AF
